1. The Japanese School System

☺ The difference between Elementary schools, Junior high schools and High schools

Elementary school to junior high school in Japan is a compulsory education. On the other hand, high school is not a compulsory education, therefore the student must to do an Entrance Examination. In high school, when grades are not satisfactory, or the number of absent days exceeded the days of the required absences, the student will not be promoted or graduate.

☺ After graduating from high school...

Students can take an entrance examination to enter a university, junior college, vocational school or order educational institution. Since most jobs require high school graduates, you will have more chances to get a job if you graduate high school. During 3 years in high school, it is important to get some qualification and think about your aptitude / ability.

2. The types of High School in Tochigi

There are public high school (Ko-ritsu-Koko) and private high school (Shiritsu-Koko). About public high school, there are full-time school (Zennichi-sei), part-time school (Teiji-sei) and correspondence education (Tsushin-sei). When it comes to the high school courses, there are General course (Futsu-Ka), Vocational course (Senmon-Gakka) and Integrated course (Sogo-Gakka).

The point of choosing the school and course

- (1) Thinking about future, interest, ability and personality, and searching your possibility.
- (2) Thinking of future dream and the future occupation.
- (3) Thinking what you want to learn at high school.
- (4) Finding out about a university one wishes to enter, course, subjects and so on.
- (5) Finding out the studies the student wants to pursue after graduation.

When you make a decision on your school and course

1st of all, you will think about your future course by yourself and then you will talk about your decision with your parents and you will ask your teachers for advice! Let's collect useful information as much as possible by attending open campus and participating in a school information session (especially private school) during summer vacation!

(2) Features of each department of public high school in Tochigi

※ 1 PTA membership dues, student council fee etc. These fees are different from school to school. Many schools, from 1st grade, start saving for the school trip.

※ 2 When it comes to the tuition fee for private high school, from 2010, students are provided monthly 9,900 yen (in total 118,800 yen a year) because of High school enrollment support fund system, moreover, depending on the income of the family, students may receive more than that.

※ 3 When there is about 9,100,000 yen for 1 year of above certain earnings of the family, you will pay the school fee.

(3) Other Expenses

* Club activity

When students join some club activities students pay for such as uniforms, game fees, and so on by themselves.

* Transportation Fee

If the student is from a remote area they can use the public transportation. If a student will use a train to go to school, he/she needs to get a commuter's pass.

(4) In case of financial problem with the school expenses/payment

* About Scholarship

This is a loan system for high school students who want to study but have financial difficulties.

When it comes to a scholarship, there are many types of scholarships like governmental ones or private ones. In addition, when the students get a job, some scholarships are required to be refunded and some are not. Besides, scholarship screening is based on the students' academic records or performance and family income. In order to apply students need to prepare several papers. Those who are interested will seek advice from the junior high school teachers or high school teachers once you enter.

When you pass...

Unlike in elementary and junior high school which are compulsory, in high school, a student cannot return to school once he/ she drops the course. Whenever students have a problem, students should talk to their homeroom teacher, teachers in junior high school and so on.

The formalities (documents, petition, preparation of examination fee etc...) of entrance examination are indicated by each junior high school.

Let's prepare all things before the day of submission.
